

Dear FCC Commissioners & Staff:

Having just learned of proposed regulatory changes that would make it more difficult for smaller Internet service providers (ISPs) to provide broadband services such as DSL, I urge you NOT to make any such changes. We need a free market in which ISPs of any size can have access to the local telephone network and individuals can choose which company they want to use. To limit what companies can provide these services would be a big step backwards. Please do not make such an anti-consumer, anti-competitive change.

Thank you,

Sincerely,

Bryan Frazar
